DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election with traverse of Species I in Paper No. 5 is acknowledged. Applicant's traverse of the requirement for election of species is noted, asserting that there is no serious burden on the examiner to examine all claims. The traverse has been carefully considered, but is not persuasive because the reasons proffered do not appear germane to the propriety of a requirement for election of species. The sections of the manual cited relate to restriction, not a requirement for election of species, which is clearly covered in section 808.01(a). Once the claims are determined to be directed to mutually patentable inventions and the Office requires an election of species, a persuasive traverse is an admission on the record that applicant does not find the claimed species are patentable, one over the other. Having not done so, the reasons presented are not persuasive. Applicant is not entitled to examination of multiple independent inventions in one application. Moreover, examination of the independent inventions herein would clearly present a burden because the searches will not be coextensive. Accordingly, the requirement is repeated and made final. Non-elected Species will be combined if applicant will stipulate that they are obvious over each other.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

NOTE: applicant canceled claims 1-8 in the preliminary amendment filed on 1/23/01.

Since applicant canceled claims 1-8 as noted above, claims 9-10 will be examined.

Specification

2. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Art Unit: 3729

3. Applicant is reminded of the proper content of an abstract of the disclosure.

A patent abstract is a concise statement of the technical disclosure of the patent and should include that which is new in the art to which the invention pertains. If the patent is of a basic nature, the entire technical disclosure may be new in the art, and the abstract should be directed to the entire disclosure. If the patent is in the nature of an improvement in an old apparatus, process, product, or composition, the abstract should include the technical disclosure of the improvement. In certain patents, particularly those for compounds and compositions, wherein the process for making and/or the use thereof are not obvious, the abstract should set forth a process for making and/or use thereof. If the new technical disclosure involves modifications or alternatives, the abstract should mention by way of example the preferred modification or alternative.

The abstract should not refer to purported merits or speculative applications of the invention and should not compare the invention with the prior art.

Where applicable, the abstract should include the following:

- (1) if a machine or apparatus, its organization and operation;
- (2) if an article, its method of making;
- (3) if a chemical compound, its identity and use;
- (4) if a mixture, its ingredients;
- (5) if a process, the steps.

Extensive mechanical and design details of apparatus should not be given.

4. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 3729

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 9-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rothenberger (US 5,462,440) in view of Boyd et al (US 5,139,427), and further in view of Kinsman (US 5,696,033).

Rothenberger discloses forming two insulating elastic films (4) having through holes (where 2 and 3 reside) corresponding to each other, forming a structure (2 and 3) consisting of many cuts linked to each other (Fig. 3), Fig. 6 shows bending the contacts (2 and 3) above and below films (4), and the contacts are severed from one another through the sheet and bent as shown in Fig. 6.

Rothenberger fails to disclose laying the structure between two films and punching through the sheet and bending the structure by punching.

Boyd discloses laying the structure between two films (40 and 42).

Kinsman discloses punching through the sheet and bending the structure by punching (Fig. 4B).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Rothenberger by laying the structure between two films, as taught by Boyd, for the purpose of eliminating an expensive molding machine to form films.

Further, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Rothenberger by punching through the sheet and bending the structure by punching, as taught by Kinsman, for the purpose of providing clean cut metal pieces without requiring harsh chemicals or deburring.

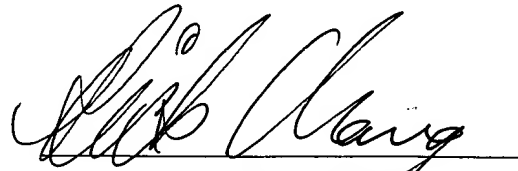

Conclusion

7. Please provide reference numerals to all the claimed limitations as well as support in the disclosure for better clarity. See 37 CFR 1.111 and MPEP 2163.06.
